Content

- 1. Context
- 2. Phase 2 rationale
- 3. Phase 2 activities
- 4. Reporting expectations

1. Context

Need for further guidance:

- Phase 2 : complete new feature of Interreg Europe
- First reporting on phase 2: July 2019
- Results of the mid-term programme evaluation

2. Phase 2 rationale

Two reasons to introduce Phase 2

- Impact of interregional cooperation takes time
   Challenges of policy changes
- 2. Policy change: is it for the better?

  Territorial effects: concrete benefits of the change

2. Phase 2 rationale

1

Example of territorial effect

Policy change:

A region adopts a new intelligent lighting system for its public building

Territorial effect of this adoption:

- How many public buildings / square metres equipped?
- Amount of energy saving achieved?
- Amount of CO2 emissions saved?

Policy change:

Strategy of Natural Heritage and biodiversity

An improvement of the Catalan information system of Natura 2000:

- new prototype of open source web portal
- provide biodiversity data, to prepare the data in formats compatible with this new web portal
- to integrate data in this new platform to made them accessible to decision makers and general public

Funds influenced: 30,000 €

Inspiration from: The Wallon workshop and study visit to the Public Service of Wallonia, Wallonia region (BE)

Partner: Forest Sciences Centre of Catalonia, Government of Catalonia (ES)

2. Phase 2 rationale

Objective: to better demonstrate the impact of cooperation

Continue monitoring policy changes

Direct programme impact

Estimating territorial effects

3. Phase 2 activities

- Action plan implementation: under the responsibilities of the regions and not of the programme
- Although limited to monitoring, Interreg Europe support remains fully legitimate:
  - Majority of policy changes may occur in phase 2
  - Phase 2, source of further learning ('learning by doing')
  - Monitoring not possible without an active partnership

3. Phase 2 activities

Extract from programme mid-term evaluation:

"Project partners should adopt a pro-active approach to monitoring the implementation of their action plans (i.e. not a passive "wait-and-see" position). This should also comprise an ongoing interaction with relevant regional or local actors, especially in those cases where stakeholder organisations are directly responsible for actually improving the addressed policy instruments."

3. Phase 2 activities

Recommendations

Guidance note includes possible measures to ensure proactive monitoring:

- Per type of activities
- At LP/ project level and partners level
- e.g. Prepare shared overview table
  - Fix quarterly deadlines to report on the progress made
  - Identify key stakeholder and invite them to annual meetings

4. Reporting expectations

Progress report template slightly adapted:

- 1. Insight into project's implementation
  - Overview of monitoring
  - 'Relevant' stakeholders involvement
- 2. Insight into project's results
  - Action plan implementation (per region/instrument)

4. Reporting expectations

Report on progress made in each action plan implementation:

- Only an overview is required
- No obligation to get details action by action

Conclusions

- Phase 2 is new but important
- JS always available for advice
- Guidance to be further developed with first practical experiences
