- Good practice #1: Escola Agrícola da Madeira

The Agricultural School of Madeira is an initiative developed by the Regional Government of Madeira. It aims to create an agricultural school that provides the regional agricultural and agri-food sectors with qualified human resources and solutions and strategies for unemployment. The school provides 100% free learning courses, given by technicians of the Regional Secretariat of Agriculture and Fisheries with extensive experience in the subject.

The courses are very useful for unemployed people, as they can be re-launched in the market with proper professional training. In this sense, the project helps increase the competitiveness of regional producers and their products and develop new projects and protocols with the Madeira Employment Institute, the University of Madeira and with private entities.
