

Measurement of 'Number of people with increased professional capacity due to their participation in interregional cooperation activities'

Interreg Europe helps practitioners of regional development policies to increase their professional skills thanks to the exchange of experience activities carried out within projects. One of the main indicators that allow the project partners to understand how successful has been the project is the so called "Increased professional capacity"; it refers to the gained new knowledge in the field of expertise of the project stakeholders and partners.

As partners of the ENHANCE project we are beginning the assessment of the results achieved along the first two years of the project and we will be very grateful if you, as active stakeholder could kindly help us by answering to this survey:
