

Subscribe

Past Issues

Translate ▼

RS

View this email in your browser

Kick start for InnoHEIs to speed up innovations!

Seven European regions are countering the same challenge: how can knowledge institutions, companies and governments work together for an innovative and entrepreneurial ecosystem? The eleven partners of InnoHEIs aim for a larger role of higher education institutions in regional development.

Learn more

Lithuanian stakeholders push region forward

Lithuanian business beginners and experienced entrepreneurs, heads of associated business organizations, municipality and administrative staff, university lecturers and a large group of engineering students have gathered in Šiauliai Business Incubator to discuss the prospects and potential of business and science collaboration. Learn more

Stakeholder workshop in Silesia, Poland

Scientific units, universities and entrepreneurs in the Polish region Silesia developed a research and cooperation model for the business sector of science and industry during the stakeholder's workshop. Learn more

Tampere UAS FieldLab leads the way to innovation

InnoHEIs partner Tampere University of Applied Sciences (TAMK) is leading the way to agile utilization of research and innovation infrastructures with TAMK FieldLab in Finland. Learn more

InnoHEIs partners will meet again in Barcelona

The Autonomous University of Barcelona will host this second partner meeting of InnoHEIs. The partners will learn about the innovation infrastructure in the region of Catalonia and the role of higher education institutions and their research and innovation infrastructure. Learn more

Copyright © 2020 InnoHEIs Interreg Europe, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.

