

IN-SITE ANALYSIS

The scope of the on-site analysis document is, according to the approved AF, “informing the participants about the problems resolved and the good practices implemented”. The information provided should be brief, so that Study Visit participants have a clear vision of the Fortress and the actions, projects and policies that have been developed around it or are planned to be developed.

| Historical background          | The Community Region of Teruel is rich in vestiges of the civil war that was lived with such intensity and harshness in these lands that it became the scene of multiple war episodes between 1936 and 1939, whose traces of destruction and suffering are difficult to find. in other parts of the national territory.   |
| Current status                 |  The rugged orography of the area is strewn with innumerable trenches and shelters, machine gun nests, pillboxes and all kinds of defensive structures that time and oblivion have softened until they are almost invisible to the inexperienced eye, merging them with the natural environment . The Region has valued this wealth of heritage with the ATRINCHERATE brand. |

Recent projects implemented

Several enclaves have been identified and their visit has been facilitated, through dissemination on the web, and with catalogs. They have been signposted to access them, and nearby parking areas have been prepared. Interpretation tables have been installed and in some cases archeological excavations, cleaning and tidying up of the land have been carried out.

They are available on google maps.

Projects under implementation or planned to be implemented

Recovery and consolidation of various war structures, trying to stop and reverse the processes of degradation to which they have been subjected for seven decades, derived from erosion, reuse of materials and, on occasions, systematic processes of colmatation and destruction (cleaning, consolidation and detection and removal of explosives if any).

These interventions aim to return to these war scenes, a morphology closer to its original state.

Local, regional, national and/or European policies used related to the

Given the magnitude of the project, the collaboration of several administrations is necessary. The project is the responsibility of the Community Region of Teruel and has the involvement and support of the councils of the municipalities involved as well as the Government of Aragon for the

| Public consultations on the actions, if any   | There has been no public consultation, but it has been included in the Strategic Plan for Regional Development for the period 2022-2026 that we are carrying out at the moment through a broad participatory process.  |
| Public opinion  | Given that these vestiges are located in strategic places with good visibility to defend the territory, the regional strategy revolves around the idea that they are splendid viewpoints. For this reason, both the description of the vestige and the landscape are offered. Any ideological bias is eliminated and this avoids hurting sensitivities since there were many local people who died in the contest. |
